

The reports from the New Hampshire election are still more flattering than those printed in these columns yesterday. Governor Prescott is re-elected by at least 2,000 majority. Last year the Republicans had a majority of 73 on a joint ballot in the Legislature, and this year they gallantly maintain that fine working majority which will give them a United States Senator. The Democrats made a hard struggle to capture the Legislature for that important prize, but were badly worsted and deeply humiliated. Hayes carried the State by a majority of 3030 in 1876, which shows that the Republicans have stood their ground nobly. The fact that the President and the party are fairly separated on two important national questions, and that Chandler's battle field is the Old Granite State, gave the Democracy considerable hope that they would not only elect McKean Governor, but would carry the Legislature. The Republicans, however, were not driven from the path of duty by anything the President had done, neither were they seduced by that political tramp, William E. Chandler. They held fast to the old Republican doctrine, fought bravely for the honored principles of the party, and won a signal victory.

The result in New Hampshire confirms what we have before stated with considerable emphasis in these columns, that no one man—though he be President—can break up the Republican party. If the party had a mission to fulfill in 1880 or '84, '88, '92 or '96, it has as equally important a one to fulfill now. So long as there is a Democratic party holding the principles which have followed it for the past twenty years, so long will there be work for the Republican party to do. The Republicans in New Hampshire are to be congratulated that at this particular time they proved true to their old-time principle, that they laid their shoulder to the political wheel, and that they achieved a victory which decks them with honor.

In an article bearing the above head, the Racine Advocate makes some reckless and unjust charges against the State Board of Charities and Reform, and especially does it fling its darts at the Rev. H. C. Tilton, of this city, a gentleman altogether above reproach both as a minister and as an official, and who is one of the most earnest, unselfish, and valuable members of the Board of Charities. It seems to us, that such a journal as the Advocate would not wilfully, do Mr. Tilton a wrong, nor any member of the Board, nor would it attempt to misguide or prejudice the public by publishing false statements concerning the expenses of the Board in making certain investigations. We presume the Advocate intends to be fair, especially in publishing statements in which figures play a most important part. Regarding the investigation of the Racine Poor House, that paper says:

We find in the bill presented to the State the following items, which show what an expensive thing a "poor house investigation" is:

A. E. Elmore, Racine County Poor House investigation.....	$36.35
C. H. Haskins.....	24.60
W. W. Reed.....	26.35
H. C. Tilton.....	110.35
T. W. Haight.....	16.30
H. H. Giles.....	60.35
Total.....	$274.41

There is an important error in that statement so far as Mr. Tilton is concerned. The Governor ordered an investigation made of the Racine County Poor House, and when a special investigation is thus ordered, $5 per day is allowed. There is no such charge as $110.35 made by Mr. Tilton, for the work done in Racine county. He spent seven days in making a thorough investigation, for which he received for services, $35.00, while the rest of the bill was for general expenses from October 12, to December 7, 1876. The following are the amounts received by Mr. Tilton from June 12, 1876, to October 1877:

June 12, 1876.....	$4.01
Oct. 12, ".....	30.60
Dec. 7, ".....	110.35
Dec. 27, ".....	40.65
April 12, 1877.....	72.25
June 15, ".....	47.00
Aug. 31, ".....	65.82
Oct. ".....	83.95
Total.....	$47.93

These several payments include the expenses between the dates given. The first includes $63.75, the full amount of Mr. Tilton's expenses in attending the National Prison Reform Congress in New York City, in June, 1876. The last one is the exact expense of attending the National Conference of the Boards of Charities last September, and for visiting several institutions, for information concerning the education of the idiotic and the chronic insane.

In regard to the Wauwatosa investigation, which the Advocate claims Mr. Tilton received $110, the facts are these: He was a member of a commission of nine, of which the Governor was chairman, to examine into the management of the penitentiary. This was independent of the State Board. When the work was done, the Legislature, without any claim being presented by the commission, allowed each member ten dollars per day, and each to pay his expenses out of that amount. Eleven days were consumed in doing the work especially ordered by the Governor. If any one is to be blamed for that expenditure it is the Governor. It appears in any particular instance that Mr. Tilton has received more pay for services than any other member of the Board, it is because he did more traveling than the others, having more time at his command in which to do the work. Who Creates a Little Disgraceful Scene in the House—The Sergeant-at-Arms Ordered to Put Him Out.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—There was a disgraceful scene in the House this morning. During the progress of the debate on the consular and diplomatic bill, Congressman Douglas, of Virginia, came down the aisle and interrupted Mr. Conger, who was speaking. Conger declined to be interrupted, and Cox, who was in the chair, called Douglas to order, and Hutton, of Virginia, seeing Douglas' condition, went to him; but Douglas became impatient to the chair, and Cox ordered the Sergeant-at-Arms to remove him. The Sergeant-at-Arms attempted to do it quietly, but Douglas resisted and Thompson, of New York, who was in the chair, began unceremoniously to drag the Virginia Congressman out. Hunter, Tucker, Springer, and others interfered, and after some trouble persuaded Douglas to go to a cloak room. He afterward came to the reporters' gallery to abuse the correspondents, but was ejected by a doorman.

UNEASINESS.

Peace Not Certain—Movement of the British Fleet in the Sea of Marmora—Speculations.

LONDON, March 14.—6 a. m.—The British Admiral has changed the anchorage of that portion of the fleet in the Sea of Marmora to the Gulf of Ismid. Orders have also been issued for the Besika Bay Squadron to move up to Gallipoli to join Admiral Commerell, second in command. This will add four heavy ironclads to the fleet inside the Dardanelles, and it remains to be seen whether they will be allowed to pass the forts. There is already serious uneasiness in Russia, where England's warlike preparations are regarded as forbidding an intention of depriving the Russians of the fruits of their hard-earned victories, and these movements of fleet are likely to add to the feeling of distrust. I have the best authority for the foregoing information, and it is hinted that the Channel fleet, now waiting orders at Malta, will soon go on to reinforce Admiral Horsey in the Sea of Marmora. Negotiations as to the meeting of Congress seem to make little progress, and alarmist tendencies begin again to manifest themselves.

TEMPERANCE.

Major Cooper at Waukesha—About Five Hundred People Sign the Pledge.

WAUKESHA, March 13.—Notwithstanding the very disagreeable condition of the weather the Town Hall was again crowded to hear Major Cooper. He spoke especially to the young men, of whom the audience was very largely composed. At the close of the address about one hundred signatures were obtained to the pledge, which makes a total of about five hundred. It does not look at present as if the Major would be obliged to leave the town, as he pledged himself to do unless he captured the Yellow Ribbon Club, as some of them surrendered this evening.

LOUISIANA.

An Extra Session of the Legislature.

NEW YORK, March 13.—A Times special from New Orleans says: "It is perfectly well understood here that the extra session has been called so that Gov. Nicholls may have the Senate on hand to consummate Gen. Anderson's pardon in case the Supreme Court fails to reverse the decision of Judge Whitaker's Court. There will be a terrible row against Gov. Nicholls as soon as he issues the pardon, but everybody understands he is committed to it. The legislation up to this time has been very conservative. The Republicans and reactionists have failed in every attempt, and will continue to fail. The State credit is being jealously defended. There will be no convention and no bad faith."

THE SILVER DOLLAR.

The Three First Coins—$100,000 Ready for Delivery—$40,000 Per Day.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—The Treasury will to-morrow receive 10,000 silver dollars from the Philadelphia mint. The three first silver dollars of the new coinage were received here to-day, and one was delivered to the President, one to the Secretary of the Treasury, and the other to the Director of the mint.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 13.—The exchanging of new silver dollars for gold commenced at the mint this morning. To-morrow 100,000 new dollars will be sent to New York. Coinage thereafter will be at the rate of $40,000 per day.

IMMIGRATION.

A General Stampede for New Homes in Nebraska.

LINCOLN, Neb., March 13.—The immigration pouring into Nebraska increases as the season advances. During the first week of March the B. and M. Railroad brought to this city fifty-one coach-loads of land-seekers and 178 car loads of immigrants. To-day's train brought in 300 mostly eastern parties. As many are coming in wagons as by cars, and the total number crossing the Missouri River into the State is not less than 1,000 daily.

FINANCIAL.

LA CROSSE, March 13.—At a special meeting of the Board of Trade, this evening, a resolution was passed in opposition to irredeemable paper currency. E. White, of this city, was elected a delegate to attend the meeting at Chicago on Friday, to organize a hard-money league.

HEAVY ROBBERY.

LA CROSSE, March 13.—H. R. Jones, of Wyckoff, Minn., was robbed last evening of $100 cash and between $10,000 and $20,000 in bonds, mortgages, etc. The thief has not been captured and is unknown.

It is a species of mumbo-jumbo business that found favor in the early days of the oil excitement, and few intelligent and intelligent natives were fascinated by the cause and have never recovered from affliction. The gentleman spoken of has more than $100,000 worth of dry holes to remain him of his foolishness."

Of the past, how many bays nostrums may be numbered! Beginning their careers with a tremendous flourish of trumpets, blazoned for a time in the public prints and on flaming posters, so, too, soon were they relegated to the limbo of things lost on earth. But Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a living and thriving remedy. It goes on curing and curing. Neither underhand nor open competition affect it. On the contrary, contrast with inferior rival preparations only increases its popularity. It has been repeatedly imitated, but without success. Counterfeits of it have been surreptitiously introduced, but have fallen flat. Everywhere it entrenches itself in the confidence of the people; and well it may, for it is a thoroughly reliable invigorant of the feeble, banishes dyspepsia and constipation, braces the nerves, cures rheumatic ailments and kidney complaints, and eradicates and prevents intermittent and remittent fevers.

The Senate Sergeant-at-Arms Receives a Handsome Present.

The Tables will be Cleared by Saturday Evening.

FROM MADISON.

Special dispatch to the Janesville Gazette, MADISON, March 14th. ASSEMBLY.

The Senate bill was concurred in authorizing counties, towns and cities to fund their indebtedness.

SENATE.

The annual budget passed providing a levy of four hundred five thousand dollars for current expenses of the fiscal year ending Sept. 30th, 1878.

The bill passed providing for the school book commission.

Both houses passed, and acted on large calendars, more business being transacted than for several days past. The Clerk's tables in both houses will be nearly cleared by Saturday, and the session of the first three days of next week will probably be without a quorum, resolutions having been introduced to dispense with roll calls after Saturday.

In the Senate, Sergeant-at-Arms Brayton was formally presented with a set of Dickens' works and a pair of engravings, by Senators and employees of the Senate.

The reporters also presented their special messengers with appropriate gifts.

GEN. JOE JOHNSTON.

How He Flanked the Ambitious Politicians in the Richmond Congressional District—An Illustrative Story.

Elizabeth City (N. C.) Economist.

Old Joe Johnston seems to be an element on the hands of our Richmond (Va.) constituents in the political camp. It seems that the aspirants for Congress in the Richmond district sought to get rid of each other by laying their claims at the feet of the old battle-scarred warrior, supposing that he, having no political ambition, would decline the offer. He bit, and he holds on. And now the trouble is how to get rid of him. He is besieged by anonymous communications through the press soliciting his withdrawal. He heeds them not.

How this case of "Old Joe" brings back to us the memory of a friend long gone. Some of the older members of the legal profession, Gilliam or Martin, perhaps, remember Malachi Haughton, of Edenton. A good lawyer, a good man, of great simplicity of character, never in public life, but as only a few of his friends knew, with a latent but ardent desire to be heard in the public councils. When the convention of 1835 was ordered, it was suggested to Mr. Haughton that it would be a good occasion to present himself in public life. He thought so too. He laid his plans, and, after consultation, concluded he would get before the public by selecting some man of influence that he felt sure would have no aspirations himself, and suggest to him to be a candidate for the Convention, supposing that the man would decline and they naturally return the compliment by suggesting the office to Mr. Haughton. He picked his man,—old "Crane" Parker. Crane was a popular, influential man in his neighborhood in Chowan, but no one dreamed that public life ever entered Crane's brain. Mr. Haughton met Crane at court and taking him aside, said: "Crane, folks talking much about Convention up your way?" "Yes right smart," said Crane. "Who do they speak of for candidate?" said Haughton. "Well, I dunno; nobody in particular," said Crane. "Well," said Mr. Haughton, "I tell you, Crane, we want a smart, sensible man to represent us in this Convention, and I think you are the man for us, if you will run." Both faces wore a thoughtful and anxious expression. Mr. Haughton thought that Crane's next word would be a proposition for him to be a candidate. Not so. After a pause, Crane said: "Well, I hadn't thought of it, but I reckon I will be a candidate; you'll give me your influence?" Mr. Haughton retired, a wiser man; and in giving an account, secretly, to a friend, of his interview with Crane he made this philosophical reflection: "There is no one such a fool but believes he's qualified for public life."

Nothing in the Quaker City has received more unlimited or well-merited praise from its guests than the Colonnade Hotel, Philadelphia, for liberal management and excellent courtesy.

An Astonishing Fact.

A large proportion of the American people are to-day dying from the effects of Dyspepsia or disordered liver. The result of these diseases upon the masses of intelligent and valuable people is most alarming, making life actually a burden instead of a pleasure. A pleasant existence of enjoyment and usefulness as it ought to be. There is no good reason for this, if you will throw aside prejudice and skepticism, take the advice of druggists and your friends, and try one bottle of Green's August Flower. Your speedy relief is certain. Millions of bottles of this medicine have been given away to try its virtues, with satisfactory results in every case. You can buy a sample bottle for 10 cents to try. Three doses will relieve the worst case. Positively sold by all druggists on the western continent.

BRIEFLETS.

—Some sunny.
—Not many sick ones.
—Look out for cross curs.
—No tramps brought in last night.
—Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Kent have gone to Kansas for a brief visit.
—The First Methodist church folks had a pleasant social last evening.
—There will be little done in base ball in Janesville this summer, but additional muscle will be put into boating.
—The first steaming up the stream of any boat this season was made by Capt. Allen's "Little Lee" last Tuesday.
—Mr. Oyster and family might as well move back to their seaside home. The spring weather don't seem to agree with them.
—Peter Decker is trying to re-employ a horse and saddle from Thomas Graham. Justice Phelps is listening to the two sides of the story.
—J. H. David, of Kentucky, has sold to Peter B. Stuart, of Waukesha county, a pair of fine mares, "Maud" and "Cora Lee," price $400.
—A performing bear is among the free street shows. It is a regular Bear-shi Bear-zouk. The contributions of pennies to the begging showman are rather light.
—Mr. Nathan Dearborn is around again after being confined to the house two weeks with a throat trouble caused by a cold which would not let go its hold.
—From the notices in various exchanges from places where Rev. Mr. Jones has been lecturing, it is safe to say that his efforts of late have been very pleasing.
—Mr. Luffield, of the Rathum house, Grand Rapids, Mich., talks of buying the Myers house, in this city. Peter says he will sell, but negotiations have progressed no further yet.
—E. B. Moses, book-keeper for M. Hanson & Co. for several years has concluded to go to Iowa and engage in business there and Mr. H. C. Hadley, formerly of the abstract office, is to take his place.
—The Beloit stage proves a convenience to those who want to do their shopping in Janesville, and there are many who take advantage of the opportunity, as they can come up in the morning and return in the evening.
—Harry O. Wilson, who has been visiting his sister, Mrs. J. D. King, a few days, returns this evening to Depece where he is telegraph operator. A number of his young friends had a merry time at the house Tuesday evening.
—Now that Janesville is to lose two of its pulpsters this spring there are many anxious queries as to who will be chosen in their places. Neither flock seem to have any shepherd in view, or if they have they keep wonderful still about it.
—It was no circus coming into town, but a carnyal loaded with the city fathers, going the rounds of the school buildings, on their annual inspection. They found everything going on to their entire satisfaction and desired the Gazette to say so for them.
—All members of the Temple of Honor should remember that Burr Robbins and his men are to be made the "Spring Brook Temple" to-night. The new Temple won't be able to use circus tents for their meetings while on the road, as the boys would steal the trade by peeping in.
—There are frequent inquiries made now as to where one can get scroll saws and fancy wood designs, as there is so much demand for this class of ornaments and ornamental now. Such inquiries would do well to read the card of Wm. Frankfort & Co., of Milwaukee, which is published elsewhere in this paper.
—Wallace Brown, who with his brother has recently opened a grocery store at No. 58 North Main street, was for some years in the Gazette office. He then went West, but has concluded that Janesville is a better place for business than any he saw. May his new venture prove highly successful. The boys deserve prosperity.
—There was a lively row between an employer and his employee the other night. The former charged the latter with robbing the till, or some other irregularity. Coats were doffed, and little things such as a hatchet and a chunk of wood were sent flying at each other's head. No first blood was awarded, the only damage being a broken window pane.
—A Chicago man struck the city yesterday and has been trying to buy up a list of small claims against his brother, in order to handle bankrupt proceedings to his suiting, it is claimed. Some of the merchants here, who had large claims on paid balked the game to a great extent by urging the smaller creditors not to sell. It is quite probable that the young man's trip to Janesville will prove a failure.
—John Elbe and Bill Stoddard, two of the crack shots of this county, returned last night, wet and foot-sore, after a dreary day's march in search of geese. Their game bags were empty, and their stomachs ditto, and now they wait to find the fellow that said that geese were so plenty that they would light on a fellow's gun and pray to be shot. If they find him they will feed him the real estate which they brought in on their boots.
—Next Tuesday and Wednesday evening and possibly Thursday evening, Clifford's troupe will put "Camille" on the boards at the Opera house. Miss Amelia Watts, an actress of acknowledged ability will take the leading part. The entertainment will be first-class and will doubtless be well patronized. Janesville has been remarkably fortunate of late in the securing of good troupes. This ranks well with that have billed here.
—Supt. S. J. M. Putnam of the Reform School for Boys, at Waukesha, is in the city to-day. He reports that institution as being in a flourishing condition. The boys lately had the privilege of hearing the Hyers sisters, and arrangements have been made to secure a lecture on Dickens by Rev. James Kay Applebee. The boys are now provided with all of Dickens's works and are reading them so that the lecture will prove of much interest and profit.
—One of the city justices has received a lithographic circular and price list of teas, accompanied by a contract ready for his signature, and an offer of $1,200 a year to travel as salesman. A request accompanies the papers that in case of his acceptance, he must forward $5 to cover the expense of sample case and contents, which will be forwarded on receipt of the cash. The bait did not take. It would be well for others who receive similar offers to wait a little before parting with their money.

—Arrangements are made for an interesting observance of St. Patrick's day at Whitewater, next Sunday. The Catholic Total Abstinence and Benevolent Society, of Janesville, will go in a body by special train, Sunday morning, together with a large number of others. They will be met at the depot by the Whitewater society, and escorted to the church, where a sermon will be preached. A parade will take place in the afternoon, and a lecture in the evening. The occasion will be one of interest.

—Among the other purchases made by Burr Robbins lately, are ten camels. They arrived today, and made quite a parade of themselves, though they were most impolitely snubbed by being compelled to march to the Spring Brook farm by the by-ways, instead of through the main streets. Mr. Robbins, with his usual thoughtfulness, deemed it better to give the camels, than to run the risk of frightening teams by letting them parade through the business portion of the city. The camels will add much to the attractiveness of his street parade this season.

—Miss Clara Judd, daughter of Dr. S. S. Judd, promises to develop into an unusually fine actress. She has gained some local reputation, having evidently marked natural ability, which she has been gradually culturing and training. Next Tuesday and Wednesday evening, she will make her debut at the Opera house as a member of the Clifford troupe, she having engaged with them. This fact will add much to the interest of the occasion, and many will doubtless be anxious to be present. She is to take quite a prominent part and there is no doubt but that she will fill it well.

—The Corn Exchange men have opened a matrimonial bureau. Their first applicant was, of course, a stranger from an adjacent town. In conversation he accidentally expressed his desire to possess a wife, and was immediately put on the track of an eligible female, but was first instructed to return home and get proper credentials and references and also get his hair dyed. He did so, and presenting himself and papers at the office again, was escorted to the home of an estimable lady, and the negotiations were fairly opened. He was pleased. She was pleased; and what started, as a joke promises to be consummated by a most happy wedding, with all of its accompanying realities.

THE WEATHER.

The thermometer at 7 o'clock this morning stood at 44 degrees above and at 2 o'clock at 50 degrees above. Clear. One year ago to-day at corresponding hours the thermometer indicated 14 degrees and 21 degrees above.

The indications are rising barometer, winds mostly northerly to westerly, stationary or lower temperature, cloudy or partly cloudy weather, and occasional rain or snow. A light rain is reported at LaCrosse, Toledo and Cleveland, and a light snow at Grand Haven.

ARREST OF LAWRENCE.

The officers have arrested Walter Lawrence, the farmer charged with the larceny of $675 from a bank in Clinton, the money coming into his hands by the mistake of a young clerk, who mistook a $75 check for a $750 one. He waived examination and was held over to the Circuit Court for trial in the sum of $1,200. It is said that one of the proprietors of the bank watched the payment of the money, but did not suspect any mistake until after he picked up the check, a few moments later, and noticed that it called for only one-tenth of the amount paid. As it was a clerk's mistake, and the money was not obtained if obtained at all, by any violence, threats, or false pretenses on the part of Lawrence, there may be some interesting legal questions growing out of the case, even should it be proven beyond doubt that he received ten times what the check called for. Lawrence gave bail for his appearance. The Gazette yesterday gave his first name as Charles. It so appeared on the warrant but should have been Walter, as above stated.

A PLEASANT PRESENTATION.

There was a very pleasant surprise at the Janesville Commercial College last evening. Mr. Fellows was just commencing a class-drill, when the other students entered in a body, and through a spokesman, Mr. D. H. Williams, presented him with a beautiful silver card receiver, as a token of their appreciation of his services as a teacher, and their regard for him, as a friend.

The gift was of itself a beauty, but its value was of course mainly in the expression of kindness and respect which the token implied. The receiver is quite large, gold-lined, and delicately chased. There is a delicate silver stem, supported by birds and climbing vines, which rises and overhangs the receiver proper, and spreading at the top, holds a cut glass card case, in the shape of oyster shells. The gift is appropriately marked "Prof. F. E. Fellows, from the students of the class of 1878."

Mr. Fellows responded in a happy manner, and the company adjourned to a restaurant where a bounteous supper was provided. The occasion was one of those happy incidents which serve to refresh one weary with toil, and encourage to still further and better exertions as a teacher.

COMPLAINTS ARE BECOMING MORE NUMEROUS AND MORE BITTER CONCERNING THE OPERA HOUSE AS A PLACE OF AMUSEMENT. THE CHIEF TROUBLE SEEMS TO BE ABOUT ITS EXITS. MANY FEAR THAT THE EXITS ARE NOT SUFFICIENT IN CASE OF FIRE, AND HESITATE ABOUT ATTENDING ENTERTAINMENTS GIVEN THERE. ONE OF THE COMMITTEES OF THE LATE ENTERTAINMENT GIVEN BY THE TEMPLE OF HONOR SAYS THAT HE knew at least twenty persons who would have attended had they not been thus timid, and others of the committee probably had a like experience. This fear may be a foolish one, and even silly, but as long as it is felt, there will be a lessening of attendance, and a corresponding decrease of profits, by the absence of these timid souls. The way to satisfy these timid ones is very simple and very inexpensive. The building of another pair of stairs in the place already provided for them, will prove an easy remedy, and would cost but little. As there seems no other way to reach the matter the Council should investigate to see if there are sufficient exits, and if there are not, the proprietors should be ordered to make the necessary change before it is everlasting too late.

Another chronic complaint is that the building is seldom well heated and ventilated. At last Tuesday evening's entertainment there was not sufficient heat to take off even a March chill, and health was correspondingly endangered.
Another trouble. The very minute the drop curtain thumps on the stage the gas is turned low, almost out, and the audience is compelled to stumble out in the dim light as best they can. Some in the audience are subject to criticism also. There are always some who selfishly seek to get out in advance of the others, and during the very last part of the programme, no matter how meritorious, they jump up, and hurry out, making as much noise apparently, as possible. This lack of common courtesy, and carelessness for the comfort and pleasure of others, who have paid their money to see all the show, is as much a subject of criticism as the troubles with which they find so much fault.

THE LAST SAD RITES.

All souls church was crowded this afternoon with sympathizing friends assembled to pay the proper tribute of love and respect to the memory of Mrs. Hulda A. Burgess, whose death occurred Tuesday afternoon. The church was beautifully trimmed with floral decorations and before the pulpit rested the likeness of the deceased. Rev. Mr. Jones conducted the exercises, which opened with prayer, "Nearer Home" was sweetly sung by a quartet, and appropriate passages of scripture read. Mr. Jones then pronounced a touching and eloquent eulogy upon the character of the departed one, and faithfully depicted her leading virtues. He drew a beautiful pen-picture of the little hamlet in Bethany where Christ found such loving friends and where he manifested his humanity by weeping over the sorrows of others. There was no scene in Christ's life more touching than when he was at Bethany. The divine there came nearer to the human. We recoil from Jerusalem, we stand in awe of Olivet, we weep at Calvary, but we love at Bethany. Some had lately felt that they too had visited a Bethany—a home where humanity was shown in its sweetest and deepest phases.

The speaker in noticing the characteristics of the life just closed, said it was a busy life. Hers were no idle hands. Hers was no vacant mind, barred and shut in, lest some evil spirits should enter there. The windows were wide open, the doors swung freely on their hinges, and the angels of truth and joy were so welcomed that the evil spirits of distrust and despair never entered.

He also spoke of her loyalty. She was loyal to her own self and loyal to all the silent promptings of her conscience—loyal too, to the needs of her kind. She was ever loyal to all movements, for the bettering of mankind.

The unselfishness of her life was also noted. She was ever doing for, and cheering others, and while never neglecting any of the duties of excellent housewifery, and family companionship and guardianship, she found time and opportunity to work for her fellows.

These were not only the exponents of her human experiences but also of her religious faith. Her life in losing its grasp upon mortality, had sent forth a sweet perfume of healthfulness like the broken flask of ointment. Her death bed was also touchingly alluded to.

At the close of the services a large number of friends followed the remains to their last resting place.

CHICAGO MARKET.

CHICAGO, March 13
The afternoon markets were well attended, and there was a fair amount of trading.
Wheat—The market on spring wheat. The late upward movement in this cereal culminated today. No export was noticeable in the local surplus. It was mainly speculative, and largely of a local scalping order. Outside orders for both cash and future grain were smaller than on either of the previous days of the week. Gilt ed receipts of No 2 closed at 1 06 1/2¢, which was the ruling price throughout. Regular No 2 was nominal at 1 05 1/2¢.
The latest report on No 3 spring wheat was active and stronger, seller April selling at 1 05 1/2¢ @ 1 06 1/2¢, and closing at 1 05 1/2¢; seller March 3 1/2¢ above April, and seller May was 1/2¢ @ 1/2¢ over April.

A correspondent of the New York Bulletin furnishes the following valuable and interesting information about the sugar production of the world: Sugar is principally derived from sugar cane and beet root, in the proportion of three parts of the former to two parts of the latter, the annual production of cane sugar being 1,500,000 tons, and of beet root sugar 1,400,000 tons; a total of 2,900,000 tons of the raw material. Of this amount 1,000,000 tons enter into direct consumption or is not refined, while the remainder, 1,900,000 tons, is subjected to what is known as the "refining" process previous to being placed upon the market as an article of food.

The cultivation of beet root is confined to European countries, but that of sugar cane has no limit.
The following is a table of the annual sugar production of the world by countries:

Total..... 447,064
From the last of these tables, it will be seen that of the sugar received at New York during 1877, 54 1/2 per cent was from Cuba, though the annual exportation from that quarter to the United States may safely be estimated at 75 per cent of the entire yield.
The cheapest sugars that come to the United States are those from Brazil and China, which is evidence that labor is as cheap in those countries as in Cuba. The same is true of Java and Louisiana, notwithstanding the latter enjoys a protective tariff.
Among the sections capable of producing an enormous quantity of sugar of a desired quality, Louisiana occupies an enviable position. The sugar now produced there are very light in color, of an agreeable flavor, and suitable for direct consumption. New Orleans molasses has, as is well known, a world wide reputation on account of its agreeable taste—a property not possessed by any other known syrup.
In the development of the sugar production of this state, the people of this country are annually interested to the amount of $80,000,000.
Previous to fifty years ago European nations were dependent upon tropical countries for their supply of sugar. Now, however, the sugar industry of Europe is of such magnitude and has been brought to such perfection that it commands the admiration of the intelligent portion of mankind. There beautifully white and chemically pure sugar is produced from beet root and such quantity as to permit its shipment to all parts of the world. This sugar is mostly refined at the place of production, only a very small quantity being exported in the crude state. In raw condition the color varies from a very dark brown to perfect white, while the placidator shows it to contain from 75 to 100 per cent of crystalline or pure sugar, yet notwithstanding this the price is sufficiently low to enable it to compete with cane sugar, and, indeed, to such an extent is it a competitor that it may be truthfully asserted that Europe holds the balance of power in the sugar trade of the world."
